

I am writing in response to the idea to loosen indecency rules currently on the books. I oppose this notion and would suggest keeping decency limits where they currently are, or making them stricter.

It is hard enough to try to raise a family in our current world; we do not need this content being allowed on public television. This content has always been and should continue to be available for people who pay for cable television. Please keep it off of our public networks.

Thank You!